LAMPLEY AIR CIRCUS BEGINS WITH TRAGEDY SUNDAY

Floyd Widdows Killed at 12:30 When Struck By Plane at Take-Off

1500 Attend Legion Party

Stunts, Chute Jump and Radio-Controlled Car Thrill Large Crowd During Afternoon

Sikeston's first air circus staged Sunday afternoon under Legion auspices on the Ruskin McCoy farm, 1 1/2 miles west and a mile south of the city near Highway 60 started with a tragedy—the first in nearly ten years of flying here. Floyd Widdows, 37 years old, son of Bill Widdows, living near Miner Switch, was killed about 12:30 o'clock, when a Curtis Challenger cabin ship, piloted by Phillip Collins, crashed while attempting to take off as a preliminary to the show, struck a small knot of spectators. Four or five persons narrowly escaped being hit, and three were knocked to the ground by the ship, but Widdows, who tried unsuccessfully to dodge the oncoming plane was struck to the ground by a wing strut and pinned to the earth by one of the landing gear wheels.

He breathed a few times after being pulled from under the wreckage, according to E. N. Leech, who assisted in rescuing the body. The Welsh ambulance was summoned, but Widdows was dead when the machine arrived. He suffered a broken neck, internal injuries and a dislocated right hip.

A coroner's jury empaneled Monday morning at the City Hall by S. H. Holman, coroner of New Madrid County, returned an open verdict, stating that Floyd Widdows came to his death April 10 "of neck and bodily bruises by being struck by an airplane in the hands of Phillip Collins". The verdict was signed by Royal Alsop, Guy Calvin, Arbie Baker, Tom Gardner, Louis Kem and E. W. Hunt. Prosecuting Attorney J. V. Conran conducted the investigation.

Testimony of several pilots, mechanics and spectators corresponded in all main details. Witnesses questioned included Leonard McMullin, Loomis Mayfield, Gus Martin, Art Sensenbaugh, E. N. Leech, Glenn Gentry, pilot Phil Collins and a mechanic.

Testimony of the several experts agreed that the ship took off in a normal manner, but that it unexpectedly lost flying speed when about six or eight feet off the ground. Collins and his mechanic had started to take off to "stunt" the town as a preliminary to the air show. The ship continued to "rev down" or lose flying speed, and Collins in an attempt to veer the plane away from parked automobiles which lined the east fence, and away from a group of fifteen or twenty spectators swerved sharply to the left. In doing so the ship struck the ground and bounced over the heads of Mr. Leech and Wm. H. Whitwell. A second later the right wing struck the ground and snapped. A wing strut struck Mr. Widdows, who had made an ineffectual attempt to dodge the plane which settled on his body.

Show Goes On

Although weather reports in St. Louis early Sunday morning were unfavorable, three ships of the Lampley Brothers Air Circus made the flight to Sikeston. The Greater St. Louis, formerly the property of Jackson and O'Brien, endurance flyers, was not permitted to leave.

The accident, of course, had its effect upon the entire performance, but since nearly 1500 persons had paid admission to the show, it was decided to continue. Pilots gave an exhibition of wing walking, stunt flying, and made one parachute jump during the afternoon. Late that evening a Chevrolet sedan equipped with special apparatus was driven about the field by remote control from an airplane.

Leonard McMullin performed an unscheduled stunt which, according to other experienced pilots is extremely difficult. McMullin stunted for the crowd about an hour after the tragic take-off of the large cabin ship, and successfully performed several loops, a tail spin and "falling leaf". When at the top of a final loop, Mc's engine cut off, and he was forced to make a dead stick landing.

Other pilots state that bringing a ship out of a stall when in this upside-down position is a feat requiring accurate flying knowledge, skill and quite a bit of nerve. McMullin, himself, modestly admits that "it was just a little embarrassing".

Pilot Collins, it was later learned, has a regular transport and instructor's license, and has about 3000 hours in the air to his credit without a fatal mishap. He is connected with the St. James Airport, and the ship used Sunday belongs to the Travel Air Corporation.

The ship was dismantled at the field and shipped via Potashnick truck to Park Airport, in East St. Louis, Ill., Sunday night.

Bill Widdows, father of the slain man, stated later that he had no intention of going to the field. He had a premonition, he said, that an accident would happen, but decided finally to accompany the "young folks" to the air field. The party had been at the field about ten minutes when the accident happened.

According to Legion members the show Sunday was fairly successful from a financial standpoint. Approximately 1000 persons paid admission at the gate, and two dozen or so, purchased tickets for a ride over Sikeston.

INHALATOR SAVES LIFE SUNDAY AT POPLAR BLUFF

Special to The Standard

Poplar Bluff, April 11.—For the second time since its purchase by the Fire Department several months ago, a pullmotor on inhalator saved the life of a local person, when the machine succeeded Sunday morning in bringing back to consciousness Frank Alsebrook, garage owner, who had been overcome with carbon monoxide gas.

Alsebrook, owner of the A. & M. Garage, was working on a car, lying under the machine when overcome. An employee, Carl Inman, heard Alsebrook groaning, pulled him from under the car and called for help. After working over the man for two hours, members of the fire department brought him around. He was resting fine today.

According to a scientist there are no female lightning bugs. That makes it hard to understand why the males do so much flying around at night.

WIDDOWS FUNERAL TO BE WEDNESDAY

Funeral services were to be conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Welsh Funeral Parlor for Floyd Widdows, victim of an accident Sunday afternoon during the air circus here. Rev. J. F. E. Bates, pastor of the local Methodist church, will conduct the funeral.

The body was removed from the air field in the Welsh ambulance, and will lie in state at the Funeral Parlor until the services.

Widdows served in the late World's War having enlisted in the U. S. Navy. He maintained a membership in the American Legion with a post in Iowa, according to his father.

The young man was born February 5, 1894 and died at the age of 38 years, 2 months and 5 days. Surviving is his father, Bill Widdows, farming one mile south of Miner, one brother, William, of Flint, Mich., and one sister, Mrs. Gordon Cox, of Memphis, Tenn. Mr. and Mrs. Cox arrived in Sikeston Sunday night and Bill Widdows is expected to arrive here Tuesday. His mother, Mrs. Bill Widdows, died five weeks ago.

PAVING TO START ON HIGHWAY 60 GAP

According to P. H. Daniels, division 10 engineer here, the E. L. Markham Construction Company of Cape Girardeau was scheduled to begin paving operations on the 7-mile gap of Highway 60 between Essex and Dexter Tuesday morning. The State Highway Commission last week-end placed the contract for the work at a total figure of $214,000, including materials furnished by the State. Plans call for an early start since the time limit set for the completion of the project is relatively short. The seven-mile stretch will complete the all-weather, concrete highway from Birds Point to Poplar Bluff, leaving a gap of approximately one-half mile in the Dexter city limits. That part of the highway will be surfaced with "black top", an asphalt and rock treatment.

Other projects in Division 10, authorized by the Commission include 3.8 miles of gravel construction from Route 25, west of Delta to the Scott County line near Randless. Richmond Construction Co. of Advance secured this contract with a bid of $13,000.

Another project calls for seven miles of gravel road connecting Highway 61 and Braggadocio, and includes a spur connection two miles south of that city.

Total bids amounted to $8,700,000 approved by the Commission last Friday.

2000 VIEW NEW FORD HERE SATURDAY

According to records kept by officials of the Scott County Motor Company here, a total of 2080 persons visited an exhibit of the new Ford car on display from 8 a. m. until 9 p. m. last Saturday. A Standard "8" coupe was on display in the local showrooms.

CHARLESTON GIRL WINS HONORS IN COLLEGE

Charleston, Mo., April 7.—Miss Louise Guthrie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Guthrie of this city, a student at William Woods College, Fulton, is listed as one of the twenty-nine students, who out of an enrollment of three hundred, made the honor roll the past semester.

Miss Guthrie is president and manager of Green Pepper Club, member of the College orchestra and pianist for the Glee Club.

She will accompany the Club in a series of programs which they will render in St. Louis and vicinity on April 10, 11 and 12.

High Sheriff of Madison County Locked in Jail While Robbers Take $2000 From Fredericktown Bank

Act II of a three-act drama has been written at Fredericktown. The first act opened last week with a uniformed highway patrolman and the high sheriff and a deputy as sole characters. Scene, Madison County highway. Sheriff C. O. Simmons and deputy Ramey are driving automobiles, two automobiles on one set of license plates, one plate on each automobile. That, said the uniformed patrolman, is naughty, naughty and Mr. Sheriff oughtn't to do such.

"You can't arrest the High Sheriff in the first place, in the second place it's none of your damn business, and in the third place, I don't like your attitude," Sheriff C. O. Simmons is reported to have told Trooper Turnbull.

The plot shifts to the office of the prosecuting attorney, where a few papers are being signed. Some mention was made of a hearing in a J. P. Court April 11. That ends scene I proper. A counterplot is, however, moving under the surface in that certain parties alleged to be allied with the High Sheriff and Ramey are circulating petitions to run the trooper out of town.

In the meantime, also, Mr. Ramey gets nasty one morning last week when he walks into a garage and finds the trooper making out daily reports. "If you spend more time on the highways instead of sitting around on your pants, you might find out something," Ramey is quoted as saying. He had reference to the report that a dead man might be found lying beside the road near the Madison-Bollinger County line. Turnbull investigated and found the man—dead drunk and happy.

Act II opens after midnight Friday last week, with Turnbull scouting around over highways and byways to see what he could see. He found more than he bargained for. The driver of a car stalled near the highway south of Fredericktown was moved to town. It contained Sheriff C. O. Simmons, more or less "polluted". To avoid any possible misunderstanding, the trooper, gentlemanlike, accompanies the sheriff home. At the old homestead door, the sheriff turns on his benefactor, however, and words are followed by flying fists, and the scene moves rapidly to the county jail. Within a very few minutes, the High Sheriff is found on the inside looking out.

The final scene of Act II is written Saturday at one o'clock, when two young men dressed in overalls, walked into the Bank of Fredericktown, pressed revolvers against Carl Schwarner, president, and helped themselves to all the currency in the vault. The holdup men they forced the bank president, the assistant cashier, Miss Pauline Sonderman, and Schwarner's son, Ralph, who walked in on the holdup, into the vault and locked the door. The robbers left town in a green painted touring car, driven by a third man, and headed north towards St. Louis. The victims were released from the vault when other employees returned to the bank from luncheon.

In the meantime warrants charging driving while intoxicated and transportation of liquor were issued by H. Clay Marsh, Madison County prosecuting attorney against Sheriff Simmons on complaint of Patrolman Turnbull.

Sheriff Simmons has been in office since 1928, his term expiring at the end of this year.

Act III will be written when the High Sheriff faces a Madison County Judge and a Madison County jury.

NEGRO CHARGED WITH MURDER IN MISSISSIPPI ARRESTED HERE SATURDAY BY LOCAL OFFICERS

Chief Walter Kendall and night marshal Gid Daniels, Saturday evening arrested Charlie Hurt, negro janitor for Miss Mayne Marshall, following the receipt of a letter from J. Q. Coppage, marshal of Itta Bena, Miss., who advised that Hurt was wanted there for murder.

The letter dated April 6, gave the following information: "I have information that one J. T. Stanford, alias Charlie Hurt or Hurze is now living at Sikeston and can be located as janitor for Miss Mayne Marshall. This negro is wanted in Leflore County for murder and I enclose herewith warrant for his arrest. Kindly notify me when you will have him in custody and I will come after him."

Hurt or Stanford surrendered quietly, but told officers "they had the wrong man". He refused to return to Mississippi to face a hearing on the charge without extradition papers, which have been requested.

He is being held in the city jail pending the arrival of Marshal Coppage.

The negro has been in Sikeston about one year, and has a clean record.

Will Open Tire and Accessory Shop on Malone Ave.

Earl C. Watkins, for the past four years a retail and wholesale out of Oran, is preparing a show room in the Martin Building, one door west of the Scott County Motor Company on Malone Avenue, where Seiberling Tires and a complete line of automobile accessories will be stocked. Mr. Watkins hopes to be able to open the shop to the public by Friday or Saturday this week.

Mr. Watkins is intimately acquainted with the trade in this district, and selected Sikeston for a headquarters location because of its favorable situation as far as shipping facilities are concerned. His family will be moved from Oran as soon as a desirable house can be located.

SHOWER GIVEN FOR RECENT FIRE VICTIM

A miscellaneous shower was given Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Grace Pool for Mrs. Louretha Lynn. Mrs. Lynn had the misfortune to lose her home and contents by fire last Thursday morning. Members of the Rebekah and Royal Neighbor lodges gave Mrs. Lynn many useful gifts to help restore the loss.

SCHOOL BOARD CUTS SALARIES 10 PCT.

Everyone connected with the Sikeston school system in 1933 will work for ten per cent less than was paid this year, according to action taken Thursday night by the Sikeston School Board. The cut had been anticipated before the recent election, but following approval of the old tax rate at the polls members of the faculty voiced timid opinions that their pay checks might escape the ax.

The cut was made, however, to bring salaries within a budget which, it is freely predicted, will fall short of present revenues. The slash will affect a saving of approximately $4700 per year, and is expected to cover a loss of State revenue, and an anticipated loss in the county and local taxes due to lowered assessments.

Present contracts which expires with the school term this spring will not be affected by the cut.

As a matter of fact salaries of teachers have not been out of line with salaries offered by other schools of like size in the State. At the present wage scale grade school teachers average $1030 per year. The 10 per cent cut will reduce this average income to $927, or approximately $18 per week.

Teachers on the high school faculty fare slightly better in that they will receive approximately $25 per week under the 1933 scale, the reduction dropping the average annual salary from $1350 to $1209.

The general average for all women teachers on the faculty under the old scale was $1100 per year. The figure drops to $990 with the 10 per cent cut. Men on the faculty including superintendent and principal averaged earning $1787 before the slash and will earn $1600 effective next fall.

According to Roy V. Ellise, superintendent, it costs approximately $60,000 annually to keep the entire school system going. In other words, it costs approximately 25 cents per day per child to keep the doors open, and the "plant" in operation. Figures mentioned in this article include negro as well as white faculty members.

SAM WILCOX ACCEPTS JOB WITH LAIR COMPANY

Sam Wilcox, formerly employed at the International Shoe Factory plant here, and more recently by A. Jack Matthews garage, last Monday started working for the Lair Company. Mr. Wilcox will have charge of sales and promotion of Majestic refrigerators, Philco radios, Prima washing machines and electric stoves.

ELLISE TO BEGIN TWELFTH TERM AS SUPERINTENDT

The Sikeston School Board last Thursday night re-elected Superintendent Roy V. Ellise for the twelfth consecutive term as head of the school system here. The personnel of the Board remains unchanged by the recent city and school election.

The Sikeston educational system has shown continuous growth with a minimum of expense under the able leadership of Superintendent Ellise. The faculty is at par or above with schools of like size in the State, and the system has been operated and enlarged continuously without straining available resources.

According to Mr. Ellise, the faculty for 1933 will be selected in the near future. A very limited number of vacancies is expected.

Germany quit paying her debts when it got so she couldn't borrow—and a lot of individuals over here seem to be doing the same thing.

WILLIAM W. KINGSBURY FOUND DYING IN VALHALLA CEMETERY, ST. LOUIS, FRIDAY MORNING

Is Father of Mrs. Julia Sikes, of Sikeston, and Warren Kingsbury, Formerly With Local Newspaper

Friends of Mrs. Julia Sikes and of Warren Kingsbury, who several years ago taught in the local high school and later worked as reporter for The Standard, were gripped Friday to learn of the tragic death of William W. Kingsbury, prominent Boonville, Mo., real estate dealer, ex-bank president, who committed suicide Friday morning at 11:20 o'clock, having previously killed his business associate Leo Meistrell.

Mrs. Kingsbury called her daughter, Mrs. Sikes about 10:00 o'clock Friday morning, soon after police found the body of Mr. Meistrell locked in the office vault of the firm. Mr. Kingsbury had failed to return home the night before, she told Mrs. Sikes, and asked that she and her husband, J. J. Sikes, come to Boonville at once.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch Saturday, carried the following account of the tragedy:

William W. Kingsbury, 55-year-old real estate dealer and former bank president of Boonville, Mo., shot and killed himself in Valhalla Cemetery at 11:20 a. m. yesterday, and hour and a half after the body of his business partner, Leo Meistrell, who had been murdered, was found in their office vault in Boonville.

Meistrell, shot three times, had been dead 12 to 14 hours. It is generally presumed in Boonville that he was killed by Kingsbury in a dispute over business matters. They had been partners for fifteen years in banking, loan and real estate activities.

KREADY DRUG STORE CHANGES HANDS

Owning a drug store for one day is the experience of Lyle Malone, who last week purchased the Kready Drug Store on Front Street, and who had completed tentative plans for moving the stock and fixtures to the Malone building, corner of New Madrid Street, and Malone Avenue.

In the meantime, R. P. Allen and George Theford, two young men, both experienced in the drug line, had also made tentative arrangements to purchase the shop, and indicated as much to Malone. To bind the bargain, the Pickneyville young men wired $500 Saturday morning, and arrived in person Sunday to close the deal.

Work of moving the stock and fixtures to the Malone Avenue location was started early Monday morning.

Mr. Allen is known to a number of Sikestonians. He received his college education in company with Buddy Matthews and Jack Bowman at Westminster College, Fulton, and has known Heinie Henry here for several years. He has had about four years' experience in the drug business, while his business associate, Mr. Theford, is a registered pharmacist, being a graduate of the St. Louis School of Pharmacy. Mr. Theford has been employed by his brother in Pickneyville for the past several years.

Some business leaders say the depression is like a bad cold. Maybe so, but a lot of citizens are not coughing up anything.

wounds inflicted by a person or persons unknown", was returned at Coroner T. C. Beckett's inquest yesterday. Dan U. Wilson, an office of the Doane Agricultural Service Co., which has offices in the same quarters that the partners occupied, testified that the two men had quarreled in his presence off and on for several months over details of their business. He testified that Kingsbury seemed to be aggressor and "argued loudly while Meistrell tried to be conciliatory."

Wilhelm Schmidt, locksmith who drilled the vault door after an hour's work, testified that it was impossible to lock the vault from the inside.

Kingsbury was seen leaving the Boonville National Bank Building, where he and Meistrell had offices, at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night. A short time before he and his partner had told their wives they were going to the office for a conference.

Stenographer Finds Hat

Before the finding of the body, WOS, the State radio station at Jefferson City, had broadcast a report that Meistrell and Kingsbury were thought to have been kidnapped. With the discovery that Meistrell was dead, however, a request was broadcast for Kingsbury.

KREADY DRUG STORE CHANGES HANDS

Plans call for a fountain in the new location, and for a thoroughly modern drug store. It will require fully two weeks, however, before Allen and Theford complete all of their arrangements.

The future location formerly housed the E. P. Coleman and Dave Crawford cotton offices, and also insurance offices of R. Q. Brown and Company. The firms mentioned have vacated, and various office partitions have been removed to accommodate the drug shop. For the time being the place will not be altered to any appreciable extent.

RAIL OFFICIALS HERE MONDAY AFTERNOON

C. F. Dougherty, superintendent of this division of the Missouri Pacific Railroad succeeding C. C. Chapman of Poplar Bluff, and W. D. Ames, division freight and passenger agent of Cairo, visited Sikeston business men Monday afternoon. They were accompanied by J. E. Robinson, local agent.

The two officials arrived in Sikeston in a motor rail car equipped standard gauge railroad tracks.

SCHOOL BOARD CUTS SALARIES 10 PCT.

Everyone connected with the Sikeston school system in 1933 will work for ten per cent less than was paid this year, according to action taken Thursday night by the Sikeston School Board. The cut had been anticipated before the recent election, but following approval of the old tax rate at the polls members of the faculty voiced timid opinions that their pay checks might escape the ax.

The cut was made, however, to bring salaries within a budget which, it is freely predicted, will fall short of present revenues. The slash will affect a saving of approximately $4700 per year, and is expected to cover a loss of State revenue, and an anticipated loss in the county and local taxes due to lowered assessments.

Present contracts which expires with the school term this spring will not be affected by the cut.

As a matter of fact salaries of teachers have not been out of line with salaries offered by other schools of like size in the State. At the present wage scale grade school teachers average $1030 per year. The 10 per cent cut will reduce this average income to $927, or approximately $18 per week.

Teachers on the high school faculty fare slightly better in that they will receive approximately $25 per week under the 1933 scale, the reduction dropping the average annual salary from $1350 to $1200.

The general average for all women teachers on the faculty under the old scale was $1100 per year. The figure drops to $990 with the 10 per cent cut. Men on the faculty including superintendent and principal averaged earning $1787 before the slash and will earn $1600 effective next fall.

According to Roy V. Ellise, superintendent, it costs approximately $60,000 annually to keep the entire school system going. In other words, it costs approximately 25 cents per day per child to keep the doors open, and the "plant" in operation. Figures mentioned in this article include negro as well as white faculty members.

Sam Wilcox, formerly employed at the International Shoe Factory plant here, and more recently by A. Jack Matthews garage, last Monday started working for the Lair Company. Mr. Wilcox will have charge of sales and promotion of Majestic refrigerators, Philco radios, Prima washing machines and electric stoves.

ELLISE TO BEGIN TWELFTH TERM AS SUPERINTENDT

The Sikeston School Board last Thursday night re-elected Superintendent Roy V. Ellise for the twelfth consecutive term as head of the school system here. The personnel of the Board remains unchanged by the recent city and school election.

The Sikeston educational system has shown continuous growth with a minimum of expense under the able leadership of Superintendent Ellise. The faculty is at par or above with schools of like size in the State, and the system has been operated and enlarged continuously without straining available resources.

According to Mr. Ellise, the faculty for 1933 will be selected in the near future. A very limited number of vacancies is expected.

Germany quit paying her debts when it got so she couldn't borrow—and a lot of individuals over here seem to be doing the same thing.

Is Father of Mrs. Julia Sikes, of Sikeston, and Warren Kingsbury, Formerly With Local Newspaper

Friends of Mrs. Julia Sikes and of Warren Kingsbury, who several years ago taught in the local high school and later worked as a reporter for The Standard, were grieved Friday to learn of the tragic death of William W. Kingsbury, prominent Boonville, Mo., real estate dealer, ex-bank president, who committed suicide Friday morning at 11:20 o'clock, having previously killed his business associate Leo Meistrell.

Mrs. Kingsbury called her daughter, Mrs. Sikes about 10:00 o'clock Friday morning, soon after police found the body of Mr. Meistrell locked in the office vault of the firm. Mr. Kingsbury had failed to return home the night before, she told Mrs. Sikes, and asked that she and her husband, Leo Sikes, come to Boonville at once.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch Saturday, carried the following account of the tragedy:

William W. Kingsbury, 55-year-old real estate dealer and former bank president of Boonville, Mo., shot and killed himself in Valhalla Cemetery at 11:20 a. m. yesterday, and hour and a half after the body of his business partner, Leo Meistrell, who had been murdered, was found in their office vault in Boonville.

Meistrell, shot three times, had been dead 12 to 14 hours. It is generally presumed in Boonville that he was killed by Kingsbury in a dispute over business matters. They had been partners for fifteen years in banking, loan and real estate activities.

Coroner's Verdict
A verdict stating that Meistrell came to his death from a "gunshot"

KREADY DRUG STORE CHANGES HANDS

Owning a drug store for one day is the experience of Lyle Malone, who last week purchased the Kready Drug Store on Front Street, and who had completed tentative plans for moving the stock and fixtures to the Malone building, corner of New Madrid Street, and Malone Avenue.

In the meantime, R. P. Allen and George Thetford, two young men, both experienced in the drug line, had also made tentative arrangements to purchase the shop, and indicated as much to Malone. To bind the bargain, the Pickneyville young men wired $500 Saturday morning, and arrived in person Sunday to close the deal.

Work of moving the stock and fixtures to the Malone Avenue location was started early Monday morning.

Mr. Allen is known to a number of Sikestonians. He received his college education in company with Buddy Matthews and Jack Bowman at Westminster College, Fulton, and has known Heinie Henry here for several years. He has had about four years' experience in the drug business, while his business associate, Mr. Thetford, is a registered pharmacist, being a graduate of the St. Louis School of Pharmacy. Mr. Thetford has been employed by his brother in Pickneyville for the past several years.

The two officials arrived in Sikeston in a motor rail car equipped standard gauge railroad tracks.

Some business leaders say the depression is like a bad cold. Maybe so, but a lot of citizens are not coughing up anything.

C. F. Dougherty, superintendent of this division of the Missouri Pacific Railroad succeeding C. C. Chapman of Poplar Bluff, and W. D. Arnes, division freight and passenger agent of Cairo, visited Sikeston business men Monday afternoon. They were accompanied by J. E. Robinson, local agent.

A Tom cat out in my back yard
Let out an awful squeal.
I had no heart to hurt him, pard
'Twas but a sex appeal.
—Greenville Sun

Joe Crouthers gave the editor
two bunches of green onions Saturday morning with which to change the odor in the printing office, or the neighborhood. Anyway, we thank him.

Would be glad if our correspondents would mail their copy to us on Tuesday in order they can be set for the first run of the paper.
The last run is usually filled with our local news and last minute advertising.

The Standard has been asked when the Supreme Court would likely hand down their decision in the ouster proceedings, and we hasten to answer: We don't know.
Sometimes their decisions come soon and then again not so soon.
Much interest over the State is centered in this case and friends of the municipal plant here hope the mills will soon grind it out.

We are in hopes the City Council will pass an ordinance placing a comfortable tax on automobiles hired to gather up voters on all election days. In a way this will protect the taxi men who pay a license for that purpose, and will protect the candidates from the milking process that has become such a nuisance. If a friend of a candidate operates his private car for nothing to help get out the vote, no license or tax should be required, but when a person and their car is hired and paid for this work, then they should pay for the privilege.

The last issue of The Standard carried a paragraph that Louis Watkins' health had so far improved that he would soon take the field to make an active campaign for Sheriff of Scott County. Saturday forenoon he informed us that physicians had advised him to withdraw from the race now in order to conserve his strength which he is doing. Louis Watkins is one of the best citizens in Scott, or any other county, and it is with regrets that conditions force his retirement. Friends had banked on electing him sheriff to succeed Tom Scott, as he is the type of man they admire.

Americans are great people.
Thousands of dollars are spent annually sending missionaries to foreign countries to civilize heathens, and at the same time bootleggers, racketeers, hijackers, thieves, thugs, kidnapers, and crooked politicians are permitted to overrun our country, and we are content to believe that we have about obtained the peak of civilization.—Malden Merit.

You have been told to "say it with flowers"; to say it "with a telegram"; to say it "with a message or 'phone"; to say it "with a valentine" and various other ways, but the nicest way "to say it" every week in the year to a loved one, your family or yourself is to say it "with a year's subscription to your home paper". The cost is less and the "saying" is so much more effective.

The smashing of matter by cosmic rays shown, so says the newspapers. Photos indicate that they drive through all living things.
This should prove of great benefit to our depressed people.

With the lowering of valuation on city property Sikeston City Council will necessarily have to cut its suit to fit the cloth. What taxes are placed against property will be slow coming in and the budget will have to be in accordance therewith. Sikeston has a nice cash balance to her credit on account of the municipal light and power but that should be applied to the bond issues outstanding. None of the light bonds are due for four years, but we have sewer bonds and water bonds that might be retired.
Or, if no bonds can be paid off at this time, extend the white way west beyond the Frisco railroad and east beyond the intersection of Highways 60 and 61.

Spring should be opening up new channels of trade to the manufacturers of five and ten gallon crocks, bottles and bottle caps. The grape juice season is just around the corner you know, and any member of the Anti-Saloon League will tell you that that's what makes these businesses boom at this time of the year.—Malden Merit.

Discussing and denouncing Communism over the radio recently, Father Coughlin said: "Communists are born; they are made". And nothing is making them quite so fast as the heartlessness of our pampered and protected industries.
Instead of having a conscience and a policy for their workmen during the depression they have turned six or eight millions of them out to starve. This total destruction of buying power for so many families has in turn affected every line of business and brought unnecessary woe into every community.
The matter of putting the entire force on half time instead of keeping half the force for full time seems not to have occurred to them. This would have maintained a 50 per cent buying power all along the line. As the matter has been managed, half the earners have 100 per cent buying power and the other half none at all, with consequent injury to retail merchants, farmers and others who depend upon a consuming public.— Paris Appeal.

Recently we have been asking ourselves "Of what good is the editorial column we write?" We do not lack testimonials on it, but at the same time we have lost friends by our personal comments. This causes us to wonder if it is worth while. Theoretically, a newspaper should have a place where the views of the editor can be expressed, giving the readers a chance to know how the writer feels and thinks about community affairs.
Practically, it is all right so long as his opinion coincides with those who read the comment. But everybody can't agree all the time on every question, and we all admit that much, but still don't like those who do the disagreeing. An editorial can be acclaimed by 500 people but all the good it will do the editor is the satisfaction of hearing these 500 hurrah about it.

On the other hand, if only one individual is offended, a friend is lost, probably a subscription and maybe a nice account. For that reason, we ask ourselves, "of what good is our editorial column?" But a habit once acquired is hard to break away from, so we suppose we will continue writing, still refuse to "straddle the fence" on local affairs, and keep on making more folks mad.

Not so many years ago, the best preacher was the one who could denounce other faiths than his own in the strongest terms. The evangelists shouted about hell fire and attempted to prove that unless your denomination was right, you were certain of membership in the pit of fire and brimstone. Few, if any churches work along the same line now, for an effort is made to create love for God rather than a fear of punishment by the devil.
But there must be some outlet for pride in the individual's church so we have a baseball league in Shel-bina that gives the Catholics a chance to trample on the protestants, and the Christians a reason to chide the Baptists and Methodists for belonging to the "wrong congregation. The season will open next month with the Methodists defending last year's honors and we will see if they are right enough to repeat.—Shelbina Democrat.

Criticism has reached us of the last few issues of The Standard.
Upon inquiry, it was because the editorial columns seemed to have been slighted. In the past if we had slighted them more we would have been better off in friends and finances for we have a happy faculty of saying the wrong thing at the right time to make someone mad.

We are just wondering if the spirited election of last Tuesday had anything to do with the cold rains of the latter part of the week. We were all het up Tuesday, blowing hot and blowing cold and the change in the weather followed.

There are about five men in Jackson who oppose everything that is proposed for the city except that which might be of their own personal benefit. If every citizen in Jackson would name ten men of this type not one of these five would be omitted in any list.—

every question, and we all admit that much, but still don't like those who do the disagreeing. An editorial can be acclaimed by 500 people but all the good it will do the editor is the satisfaction of hearing these 500 hurrah about it. On the other hand, if only one individual is offended, a friend is lost, probably a subscription and maybe a nice account. For that reason, we ask ourselves, "of what good is our editorial column?" But a habit once acquired is hard to break away from, so we suppose we will continue writing, still refuse to "straddle the fence" on local affairs, and keep on making more folks mad.

Not so many years ago, the best preacher was the one who could denounce other faiths than his own in the strongest terms. The evangelists shouted about hell fire and attempted to prove that unless your denunciation was right, you were certain of membership in the pit of fire and brimstone. Few, if any churches work along the same line now, for an effort is made to create love for God rather than a fear of punishment by the devil. But there must be some outlet for pride in the individual's church so we have a baseball league in Shelby that gives the Catholics a chance to trample on the protestants, and the Christians a reason to chide the Baptists and Methodists for belonging to the wrong congregation. The season will open next month with the Methodists defending last year's honors and we will see if they are right enough to repeat.—Shelby Democrat.

Criticism has reached us of the last few issues of The Standard. Upon inquiry, it was because the editorial columns seemed to have been slighted. In the past if we had slighted them more we would have been better off in friends and finances for we have a happy faculty of saying the wrong thing at the right time to make someone mad.

We are just wondering if the spirited election of last Tuesday had anything to do with the cold rains of the latter part of the week. We were all hot up Tuesday, blowing hot and blowing cold and the change in the weather followed.

There are about five men in Jackson who oppose everything that is proposed for the city except that which might be of their own personal benefit. If every citizen in Jackson would name ten men of this type not one of these five would be omitted in any list.—Jackson Cash-Book.

SHORT WAVES, the Key to Distance

If you've longed to get through the "barrage" of powerful American stations to search the air waves for foreign broadcasts, do it now with Majestic's great new developments in short wave radio. If you already own a modern, sensitive superheterodyne receiver, simply add Majestic's Short Wave Converter. If the "good old set" is rather far from being a modern radio, let us show you Majestic's new models giving both short and standard wave radio in one handsome cabinet -- at prices below many sets giving you standard wave programs only.

"GET THE FACTS." That was the order that went to our research people in 1930 and to the American Automobile Association in 1931. "Get the facts about lubrication requirements and how Iso-Vis (a Standard Oil product) meets them."

"Get the facts." Again this year that was the order. But this time it went out to skilled news writers, trained for years to "get the facts" of human activities. "Who are the people who are using Iso-Vis Motor Oil?" "Are they satisfied?" "How do their cars perform?"

Mr. Casey and Miss Lane met and talked with Iso-Vis users everywhere. Professor Davidson, a specialist in Agricultural Engineering, interviewed farm users of Standard Oil lubricants.

We were grieved and shocked when we heard of the terrible tragedy at Booneville and St. Louis that ended in the death of Lee Meistrall and the suicide of W. W. Kingsbury. We haven't at hand the particulars of the killing of Meistrall and the suicide of Kingsbury, but we knew Mr. Kingsbury and to know him was to love him. He had been a visitor in our home, in our office, and each visit was more enjoyable. It hardly seems that the polished gentleman could have killed a man and destroyed himself, but he did. The cause must have been one that was justifiable, but whatever the cause, we shall always remember him with pleasure. Wish it were possible to say some words of comfort to the family in their sorrow, but words fail us though our heart is with them.

Ben Whitesides of Alton, Ill., a former resident of this city, paid The Standard editor an appreciative call Monday forenoon. He is a grown man now, married and has a boy five years old. Some 17 or 18 years ago, when Ben was quite a lad, he and the editor used to be quite friends and the older man got quite a bit of pleasure out of visiting with the lad. One of the business ventures that we often discussed was not raising chickens, pigs, and the like, but renting the woods pasture on the Hart farm and starting an elephant farm—raising something big and different. We'll never forget Ben and these business talks and hope he will never forget us.

There should be enough law-abiding citizens in the adjoining county of New Madrid to elect a sheriff this year who has no bootlegging or gambling connection, or if not, then let the county run wide open for the liquor and gambling element to reap a real harvest.

The Government lending three millions to railroads to settle their bills with the banks looks like legislation of the rankiest sort. When the banks financed the railroads they certainly had some sort of security, and if the railroads could not pay let them take security. Now the Government assumes the responsibility and the taxpayers will have to pay the bill.

If this damp chilly weather keeps up longer guess we'll not be able to take off our long coats before the 4th of July. Maybe this sort of weather is the best for all, as the farmer will not be able to put in such large acreage to add to the so-called overproduction.

There are sheriffs and there are sheriffs. The late sheriff of Pemiscott County up for sentence to the penitentiary for winking at liquor violations. The sheriff of Madison County drunk and disorderly and locked up in his own jail. Some sheriffs serving their terms with credits and retiring without money, other out of office and living on easy streets. It is high time voters of Southeast Missouri counties give attention to the past connections of the officers they expect to have to protect home and property.

WHEN SIR GEORGE GORE HUNTED HERE

Before Southeast Missouri swamps were ditched it was a great small game country. West of Skeston, around Morehouse and Canalo, on south all through the Little River area, deer, turkey, bear and wild fowl life was abundant.

Sir George Gore, an Englishman of rank is remembered by the "old timers" of this section who were (then youngsters) as coming here to hunt. His camp was in the vicinity of Morehouse and he had half a dozen servants with him. He had two cooks, two men to take care of his hunting dogs, and two others to care for his tents and camp. Buffalo robes were used for bed quilts and he was very pleasant and glad to have company. He made many friends and was a genial host. He had hunted in Africa and other parts of the world and is quoted as saying that this section was the finest small game hunting ground that he had ever seen. Wild geese and ducks in the swamp land stayed in it from season to season. Sometimes a person wonders if scientific drainage has not been overdone and perhaps more attention had been given to opening natural drainage channels it would have been better for man, and the wild life of nature too.—Libbourn Banner.

LOCAL SCOUTS TO BE ON JUNIOR CAMP STAFF

Scoutmaster Robert Wells of Troop 21 of Poplar Bluff has been appointed Assistant Camp Director of the Southeast Missouri Area Boy Scout Camp which will be held at Camp Rotary in Bollinger County from July 10 to August 20. Mr. Wells will not only assist in the directing of the camp, but will also have charge of the water front activities, a position for which his Red Cross training he is well fitted. Mr. Wells has had considerable experience in Scouting. He was a Boy Scout for a number of years and holds the rank of Star Scoutmaster and as Scoutmaster.

The personnel of the Junior Staff has not been entirely completed but it is very likely that Edward Nixon, Star Scout of Troop 9 of Cape Girardeau, Charles Coffey, Star Scout of Troop 1, Cape Girardeau; Paul David Malone, Eagle, and David Keasler, Star Scout of Troop 41, Skeston; Charles Leonard Kirk, Troop 31, Charleston, all of whom were members of the staff last year, will return again this season. Nixon will have charge of first aid work. He is at present a student in the medical school at Washington University and is taking special training in first aid in a course conducted jointly by the Boy Scouts and Red Cross at St. Louis. He will also have charge of the commissary. It is probable that Kirk will again operate the camp store; Coffey the quartermaster department, Keasler the camp library, and Malone be camp clerk and bugler. In addition all of the staff will assist in Scout craft instruction. The Scout executive, Cecil G. Morrison, will again be director.

Another important question to be settled is why they call it grapefruit. It doesn't look like a grape, it doesn't taste like a grape and it doesn't feel like a grape. The grape is a juicy berry, the fruit of the vines of the genus vitis rotundifolia and the grapefruit is a homely, a globose citrus fruit that squirts juice in your eye whenever you try to eat it. The United States produces 96 per cent of the world's supply of grapefruit and the Isle of Pines only 2 per cent.—Louisiana Press-Journal.

MODERNIZE THE KITCHEN
Smaller Kitchens Now Being Constructed
BRILLIANT COLORS ARE IN VOGUE

When a discussion of modernizing arises, one of the early discussions centers about the arrangement of the various rooms of the house. Methods of improvement are important to the housewife and so in turn each one of the rooms comes in for a careful examination and appraisal.

One of the important rooms of the house to the housewife is the kitchen. Here she spends many hours a day, preparing the food for the meals and afterwards cleaning the dishes. The kitchen is the workshop of the home, to quote from various authorities on the subject. It is here that one of the most important operations of housekeeping is carried on.

The kitchen of the average house built many years ago is large. The sink, work table and stove were scattered about with broad spaces between. At one side was usually found a pantry, a tiny room, with many shelves for the storing of canned fruits, dishes, and food-stuffs of all sorts.

The proverbial old-time kitchen was a place where the family gathered and often where the next door neighbor was entertained. Some times it contained several chairs, a bird cage and other objects far removed from the business of cooking.

Small Kitchens
Drawing their inspiration from the city apartment where space was at a premium, the architect and housewife discovered that the small kitchen was a distinct asset to the home.

In the first place, it was a saver of steps. In a small kitchen the sink, work table, and stove were only a few steps apart. No time was lost in going from one to the other. More work could be done in a short time and less effort was required.

Today the small kitchen is the rule in home planning. Few housewives desire to own one of the old-time large kitchens. When the modernizing and remodeling problem arises, plans are usually made to decrease the size of this room. household decoration, the kitchen has in turn become more brilliant. No longer is it a drab workshop where the housewife carries on a sort of semi-drudgery. Today with vivid spots of color and cheerful surroundings, the kitchen becomes a joyous workshop where she can labor during fleeting hours.

Today you will find kitchens colorful and pleasant. The gas range, once a stove of black and white, is now finished in green, red, yellow or blue. The prosaic kitchen sink is adorned with tints which harmonize with the general color scheme.

Often the built-in pantry cases or cupboards, which take the place of the old-fashioned space-consuming pantry, are striped with color. The linoleum on the kitchen floor affords another opportunity to carry out the color scheme.

Illumination
The modern kitchen has plenty of light. Window openings are large and usually include two units of ash. Besides the center ceiling light, wall brackets are located over the sink and stove to give special lighting at these points.

The importance of numerous electrical outlets should be emphasized. The growing use of electrical apparatus for cooking makes it imperative that facilities be provided for the needed current. Outlets should be located in the waistcoat waist high and double sockets should be specified instead of single.

Give the housewife full sway in organizing the modernization of the kitchen. This room is one of the important ones of the home and she should be allowed to make her modernized kitchen adequate to carry on her duties.

Hardwood Floors May Be Obtained in Variety of Wood

Often a home owner hesitates to place hardwood floors because he has a mistaken idea of the cost. The average person thinks of hardwood as being expensive when such is not the case.

This is due to the fact that hardwood flooring can be obtained in a number of kinds of wood. Oak floors have long held chief place in the esteem of builders as the premier wood for flooring but experienced builders point out that other woods such as beech, maple and birch have their merits and may be used appropriately.

The wood to be used should be chosen with the decorative scheme of the home in mind. Each of the hardwoods on the market have their place, but each does not take stains equally well. Maple, for instance, has a fine grain and does not stain easily. Because of its whiteness it is much acclaimed as a floor of natural beauty. The clear color remains.

Beech and birch stain most satisfactorily and the home owner can specify these woods, knowing that he will get a floor that stains beautifully and polishes well.

Care should be taken when choosing hardwood to get a wood that has been properly treated. Wood that is green and still uncured will soon swell, causing it floor to buckle. The only remedy is to entirely replace the floor, an expensive proceeding.

Prominent Real Estate Man Kills Partner and Himself

Note Found in Pocket
Beside him lay a revolver from which two shots had been fired. He had been shot once in the right temple. He died within a few minutes without making a statement. In his pocket was the following note, written on the back of an envelope:

"Name—William W. Kingsbury, Booneville, Mo. Notify H. M. Kingsbury, New Franklin, Mo. I want my body cremated."

Then were listed the names of three St. Louisans, presumably to facilitate identification. They were Joseph W. Jamison, general attorney for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.; C. W. Harrison, of the plant division of the Bell company; and Dr. Emmett P. North, formerly president of the State Board of Health.

"I have about $10 in small change in my pocket," the note concluded. A deputy who was called found $7 in cash, and papers, in addition to the note, which confirmed the identification.

Tells of Bitter Feeling
Coroner Beckett of Booneville told a Post-Dispatch correspondent that Kingsbury and Meistrall had had a serious quarrel over business affairs about six months ago, but had continued in business together, although there was bitter feeling between them.

Coroner Beckett said investigation after the discovery of Meistrall's body, indicated his murder had been planned in advance. It was found that shortly before 8:30 Thursday night Kingsbury went to a filling station in Booneville and had his car greased and fueled. Then he went to the office, but left after a few minutes.

Meistrall, 43, formerly was cashier of the Citizens Trust Co. which merged with the Farmers' Trust Co. of Booneville. Kingsbury was president of the Citizens' Trust. The two men, old friends, went into real estate and loan business after the merger.

Meistrall was active in Catholic church affairs in Booneville. He is survived by a widow and seven children.

Kingsbury is survived by his widow and four children, William, who is telegraph editor of the Nashville Tennessean; Warren, a teacher in high school at Marshall, Mo.; Mrs. John Sikes of Skeston and Jere, former student at the University of Missouri, who is employed by an oil company.

MODERIZED HOMES ARE EASY TO SELL
Buyers Appear When House Is Up-to-Date

The home owner who has modernized his old-time residence finds almost immediately that he has created a market for the building if he desires to sell.

It is the experience of many home owners that they are besieged with inquiries as to the selling price of the improved property. Persons who looked with disdain on the old house are interested when they see it in its new set of garments.

Modernized homes are usually easy to sell. Even on a slow market they move readily.

Demand for Modern Homes
The family who are in the market for a new house are interested only in those that are relatively up-to-date. They want a house that is all of the modern improvements.

Hardwood floors, shower baths, oil heaters, attractive exterior lines have their appeal. The house owner with these modern fixtures becomes worth while in the estimation of the home seeker.

Due to the increased saleability of the modernized house, the cost of modernization cannot be classified as an expense. It becomes an investment. Even though the home owner may not care to sell the property the desire of others to own it increases its value.

The rise in valuation of the modernized property depends upon the location, the neighborhood and other variables. Many home owners have made the assertion that for every dollar they have received back, not just the dollar they invested, but two dollars or three dollars in increased property values. Some even quote figures that are higher than these.

old kitchen contains none of the conveniences which mark the modernizing, first make the kitchen up-to-date.

AL GRADES OF HARDWOOD FLOORS
Hardwood floors may be obtained in several grades of lumber, the variation in cost, thus:

Typical floor can be used in practically every home. The cost of the floors is now no objection. They are a good investment as they last for many years.

RECEIVERS NAMED FOR CAIRO BRIDGE
Centralia, Ill., April 6.—W. E. Cummins, Cairo attorney, and W. H. Wood, wholesale grocer and former Cairo Mayor, today were named co-receivers for the Mississippi River toll bridge at Cairo, operated by the Cairo Bridge and Terminal Co., by Federal Judge Fred L. Wham of the Eastern Illinois District.

The application for receivership which was brought by three Mississippi County, Missouri, preferred stockholders, was attacked by Attorney David S. Landsen of Cairo, representing the bankers and direct taxes, on the grounds that the court had no jurisdiction.

Attorneys Wils Davis of Memphis, Tenn., and S. B. McClanahan of St. Louis argued for the bill.

A creditor's bill which was asked for in East St. Louis yesterday also was presented.

The Mississippi River bridge, which cost $3,100,000, was completed January 1, 1931. The company has been unable to pay interest on its bonds.

The bridge connects U. S. Highway 51 with U. S. Highways 60 and 62 and is an important link in the route from the north and northeast to the south and southwest.

Walter Warfield, born in Natchez, Miss., March 26, 1882, died April 4, 1932, at the age of 50 years and 9 days. Funeral services were conducted at the Carroll church, 12 miles northwest of Skeston, Wednesday afternoon, 2:30 o'clock with Rev. Gibson officiating. Interment in Carroll Cemetery with Welsh in charge.

A wife, five children, his father and five brothers, survive.

PASSION PLAY ATTRACTS MANY FROM SKESTON
The Freiburg players presenting the Passion Play last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, under the auspices of the State Teachers' College in Cape Girardeau, played before rather small audiences on each of the three nights.

The play portrays the events of Holy Week, opening with the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem and closing with the resurrection scene. Especially outstanding were the scenic effects obtained in the portrayal of The Last Supper, the Crucifixion, and the Resurrection.

All players in the original cast are natives of Germany, but the lines of the famous play have been learned in English making the presentation more effective for audiences in the United States. In each instance action, lines and costumes.

We were grieved to hear that Miss Nell Littlejohn had a nervous breakdown that caused her to be sent to a sanatorium for a rest and treatment. Miss Nell is a general favorite in Sikeston and friends will be glad to hear soon that she has completely recovered.

A great many Democrats are of the opinion that because it is highly probable that Russell Deamont will lose Kansas City and Jackson county by some 40,000 votes that his nomination is impossible. If these same Democrats will study the primary election in 1912 for convinced that the task ahead of Senator Deamont is not a difficult one. Elliott W. Major was nominated in this primary over four opponents. W. S. Coward carried Jackson county and St. Louis by a majority of 35,454 votes. Women did not vote in that year, hence the majority with equal suffrage would have been approximately 70,000. If these same Democrats will study the lead in the country with four opponents in the field. He succeeded, so can Deamont who is confronted with a much more favorable situation. In the first place we do not expect to lose Jackson county and St. Louis by anything like 40,000. And secondly, he has but one opponent with whom he must divide the out-State vote, hence the lead against him, if any, can be whittled down in a hurry. The only thing that endangers the success of Senator Deamont is a lack of confidence in his supporters. —Jackson Cash-Book.

Now the Government assumes the responsibility and the taxpayers will have to pay the bill.

If this damp chilly weather keeps up much longer guests will not be able to take off our long ones before the 4th of July. Maybe this sort of weather is the best for all, as the farmer will not be able to put in such large acreage to add to the so-called overproduction.

There are sheriffs and there are sheriffs. The late sheriff of Pemiscot County up for sentence to the penitentiary for winking at liquor violations. The sheriff of Madison County drunk and disorderly and locked up in his own jail. Some sheriffs serving their terms with credit and retiring without money, other out of office and living on easy streets. It is high time voters of Southeast Missouri Counties give attention to the past connections of the officers they expect to have to protect home and property.

WHEN SIR GEORGE GORE HUNTED HERE

Before Southeast Missouri swamps were ditched it was a great small game country. West of Sikeston, around Morehouse and Canolou, on south all through the Little River area, deer, turkey, bear and wild fowl live in abundance.

Sir George Gore, an Englishman of rank is remembered by the "old timers" of this section (who were then youngsters) as coming to hunt. His camp was in the vicinity of Morehouse and he had half a dozen servants with him. He had two cooks, two men to take care of his hunting dogs, and two others to care for his tents and guns. Buffalo robes were used for bed quilts and he was very pleasant and glad to have company. He made many friends and was a most genial host. He had hunted in Africa and other parts of the world and is quoted as saying that this hunting ground that he had ever seen. Will geese and ducks in the swamp land stayed in it from season to season. Sometimes a mouse wonders if scientific fragrance has not been overdone, and if perhaps the attention has been paid to opening natural drainage channels it would have been better for man, and the wild life of nature too.—Libbourn Banner.

Smaller Kitchens Now Being Constructed
BRILLIANT COLORS ARE IN VOGUE

When a discussion of modernizing arises, one of the early discussions centers about the arrangement of the various rooms of the house. Methods of improvement are so important to the housewife and so in turn each one of the rooms comes in for a careful examination and appraisal.

One of the important rooms of the house is the kitchen. Here she spends many hours a day, preparing the food for the meals and afterwards cleaning the dishes. The kitchen is the workshop of the home, to quote from various authorities on the subject. It is here that one of the most important operations of housekeeping is carried on.

The kitchen of the average house built many years ago is large. The sink, work table and stove were scattered about with broad spaces between. At one side was usually found a pantry, a tiny room with many shelves for the storing of canned fruits, dishes, and food-stuffs of all sorts.

The proverbial old-time kitchen was a place where the family gathered and often where the next door neighbor was entertained. Sometimes it contained several chairs, a bird cage and other objects far removed from the business of cooking.

Small Kitchens

Drawing their inspiration from the city apartment where space was at a premium, the architect and housewife discovered that the small kitchen was a distinct asset to the home.

In the first place, it was a saver of steps. In a small kitchen the sink, work table, and stove were only a few steps apart. No time was lost in going from one to the other. More work could be done in a short time and less effort was required.

Today the small kitchen is the rule in home planning. Few housewives desire to own one of the old-time large kitchens. When the modernizing and remodeling problem arises, plans are usually made to decrease the size of this room. Household decoration, the kitchen has in turn become more brilliant. No longer is it a drab workshop where the housewife carries on a sort of semi-draggery. Today with vivid spots of color and cheerful surroundings, the kitchen becomes a joyous workroom where she can labor during fleeting hours.

Today you will find kitchens colorful and pleasant. The gas range, once a stove of black and white, is now finished in green, red, yellow or blue. The prosaic kitchen sink is glorified with tints which harmonize with the general color scheme.

Often the built-in pantry cases or cupboards, which take the place of the old-fashioned space-consuming pantry, are striped with color. The linoleum on the kitchen floor affords another opportunity to carry out the color scheme.

Illumination

The modern kitchen has plenty of light. Window openings are large and usually include two units of sash. Besides the center ceiling light, wall brackets are located over the sink and stove to give special lighting at these points.

The importance of numerous electrical outlets should be emphasized. The growing use of electrical apparatus for cooking makes it imperative that facilities be provided for the needed current. Outlets should be located in the wainscot waist high and double sockets should be specified instead of single.

Give the housewife full sway in organizing the modernization of the kitchen. This room is one of the important ones of the home and she should be allowed to make her modernized kitchen adequate to carry on her duties.

The wood to be used should be chosen with the decorative scheme of the home in mind. Each of the hardwoods on the market have their merits and may be used appropriately.

Hardwood Floors May Be Obtained in Variety of Wood

Often a home owner hesitates to place hardwood floors because he has a mistaken idea of the cost. The average person thinks of hardwood as being expensive when such is not the case.

This is due to the fact that hardwood flooring can be obtained in a number of kinds of wood. Oak floors have long held chief place in the esteem of builders as the premier wood for flooring but experienced builders point out that other woods such as beech, maple and birch have their merits and may be used appropriately.

Kingsbury remained out of sight until workmen in Valhalla Cemetery, at Carson and St. Charles road, hard two shots. They ran to a tree under which lay a man proved by papers in his pockets to be Kingsbury.

Note Found in Pocket

Beside him lay a revolver from which two shots had been fired. He had been shot once in the right temple. He died within a few minutes without making a statement. In his pocket was the following note, written on the back of an envelope:

"Name—William W. Kingsbury, Booneville, Mo. Notify H. M. Kingsbury, New Franklin, Mo. I want my body cremated."

Three were listed the names of these St. Louisans, presumably to facilitate identification. They were Joseph W. Jamison, general attorney for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.; C. W. Harrison, of the plant division of the Bell company; and Dr. Emmett P. North, formerly president of the State Board of Health.

"I have about $10 in small change in my pocket," the note concluded. A deputy who was called found $7 in cash, and papers, in addition to the note, which confirmed the identification.

Tells of Bitter Feeling

Coroner Beckett of Booneville told a Post-Dispatch correspondent that Kingsbury and Meistrell had had a serious quarrel over business affairs about six months ago, but had continued in business together, although there was bitter feeling between them.

Coroner Beckett said investigation after the discovery of Meistrell's body, indicated his murder had been planned in advance. It was found that shortly before 8:30 Thursday night Kingsbury went to a filling station in Booneville and had his car greased and fueled. Then he went to the office, but left after a few minutes.

Meistrell, 43, formerly was cashier of the Citizens Trust Co. which merged with the Farmers' Trust Co. of Booneville. Kingsbury was president of the Citizens' Trust. The two men, old friends, went into real estate and loan business after the merger.

Meistrell was survived by his widow and four children, William, who is telegraph editor of the Nashville Tennessean; Warren, a teacher in high school at Marshall;

AS AID TO HOUSEWIFE
MODERIZED HOMES ARE EASY TO SELL

Buyers Appear When House Is Up-to-Date

The home owner who has modernized his old-time residence finds almost immediately that he has created a market for the building if he desires to sell.

It is the experience of many of home owners that they are besieged with inquiries as to the selling price of the improved property. Persons who looked with disdain on the old house are interested when they see it in its new set of garments.

Modernized homes are usually easy to sell. Even on a slow market they move readily.

Demand for Modern Homes

The family who are in the market for a new house are interested only in those that are relatively up-to-date. They want a house that has all of the modern improvements.

Hardwood floors, shower baths, oil heaters, attractive exterior lines have their appeal. The house with these modern fixtures becomes worth while in the estimation of the home seeker.

Due to the increased salability of the modernized house, the cost of modernization cannot be classified as an expense. It becomes an investment. Even though the home owner may not care to sell the property the desire of others to own it increases its value.

The rise in valuation of the modernized property depends upon the location, the neighborhood and other variables. Many home owners have made the assertion that for every dollar they have invested in modernization they have received back, not just the dollar they invested, but two dollars or three dollars in increased property values. Some even quote figures that are higher than these.

The Mississippi River bridge, which cost $3,100,000, was completed January 1, 1931. The company has been unable to pay interest on its bonds.

The bridge connects U. S. Highway 51 with U. S. Highways 60 and 62 and is an important link in the route from the north and northeast to the south and southwest.

PROVIDE FOR RADIO WHEN REMODELING

Many modern homes are surrounded by makeshift radio aerials, placed on the roof by amateur carpenters who know little or nothing of the proper construction of the aerial standard or mast. When modernizing, have the carpenter construct an aerial standard that will be a credit to the house and a real part of it.

Provision should be made also for the proper installation of lead-in and ground wires. Often these may be brought down through special conduits instead of being laid along the side of the building.

RECEIVERS NAMED FOR CAIRO BRIDGE

Centralia, Ill., April 6.—W. E. Cummins, Cairo attorney, and W. H. Wood, wholesale grocer and former Cairo Mayor, today were named co-receivers for the Mississippi River toll bridge at Cairo, operated by the Cairo Bridge at Terminal Co., by Federal Judge Fred L. Wham of the Eastern Illinois District.

The application for receivership which was brought by three Mississippi County, Missouri, preferred stockholders, was attacked by Attorney David S. Landson of Cairo, representing the bankers and directors, on the grounds that the court had no jurisdiction.

Attorneys Wils Davis of Memphis, Tenn., and S. B. McClanahan of St. Louis argued for the bill. A creditor's bill which was asked for in East St. Louis yesterday was also presented.

The Mississippi River bridge, which cost $3,100,000, was completed January 1, 1931. The company has been unable to pay interest on its bonds.

The bridge connects U. S. Highway 51 with U. S. Highways 60 and 62 and is an important link in the route from the north and northeast to the south and southwest.

Walter Warfield, born in Natchez, Miss., March 26, 1882, died April 4, 1932, at the age of 50 years and 9 days. Funeral services were conducted at the Carroll church, 12 miles northwest of Sikeston, Wednesday afternoon, 2:30 o'clock with Rev. Gibson officiating. Interment in Carroll Cemetery with Welsh in charge.

A wife, five children, his father and five brothers, survive.

PASSION PLAY ATTRACTS MANY FROM SKESTON

The Freiburg players presenting the Passion Play last Thursday, Friday and Saturday, under the auspices of the State Teachers' College in Cape Girardeau, played before rather small audiences on each of the three nights.

The play portrays the events of Holy Week, opening with the entry of Jesus into Jerusalem and closing with the resurrection scene. Especially outstanding were the scenic effects obtained in the portrayal of The Last Supper, the Crucifixion, and the Resurrection.

All players in the original cast are natives of Germany, but the lines of the famous play were learned in English making the presentation more effective for audiences in the United States. In each instance action, lines and costumes.

Chapter XI

When Ed and Daisy arrived at Cell's at midnight the place was crowded. The five-piece orchestra was in the midst of a spasm of barbaric insouciance, the ten-by-twelve dance floor was filled with writhing, clinging bodies, waiters were hurrying here and there with liquor in coffee-cups and tea-pots, the small room was filled with the odors of cigarette-smoke, perfume and booze.

Ed, reeling slightly, pitched his hat to the check-room girl while Daisy disappeared in the small, curtained room to the right.

"Be right out!" she called.

Ed leaned in the doorway and surveyed the scene. He suddenly decided that he wouldn't go in, and turned back to get his hat. But Tessie, the check-room girl, cajoling and insistent, pinched his cheek and said:

"What's the matter copper don't you like our joint?"

Ed looked at her a moment and then walked away. The head-waiter, rubbing his hands in an unctuous manner, approached.

"You're still a rookie," said 'Fighting Fita' to his freckled-face son.

"Whatcha say, Sergeant?" he asked in his most solicitous manner.

"You got a nice crowd," said Ed noncommittally.

"Yep!" exclaimed the other. "But—always room for you and one more!"

"Okay," said Ed. "But stick us in a corner."

"Got just the spot for you," bowed the head-waiter. "Been waitin' Right this way."

"Just a minute," from Ed glancing toward the curtained door. The curtains parted that moment and Daisy came out.

"Tired waitin'?" she asked. "Was powderin' my nose?"

"Let's get seated," said Ed, who felt that everyone was watching him. The head-waiter, still bowing, was head-waiting. He led the way skirting the dance floor, to a booth in the rear. Ed unceremoniously took his seat without standing for Daisy to sit down. The waiter was close at hand, ferret-eyed and watchful.

"I'll take rye," said Ed.

"Twice," seconded Daisy.

The waiter vanished.

"Why in hell did you want to come here?" asked Ed. "Everybody knows I'm a copper. You make it hard."

"What's the difference?" queried Daisy. She smiled at him and reached across and took his hand. "What's the difference? Don't everyone know coppers can be human?"

"But that head-waiter knows me—did you tip them off? I'd just as soon not be known." And Ed threw himself back in the recess of the booth and crossed his legs to the side.

"Oh, here's Belmonte!" exclaimed Daisy. She moved over as Belmonte, accompanied by Cholo, stopped in front of the booth. Ed started to say something, but merely muttered. Belmonte threw out a friendly hand.

"Hello, Sergeant," he sang, "glad to see you."

"Hello," chimed Cholo. Belmonte took his seat beside Daisy and Cholo sat beside Ed.

"I hear this is your birthday," crooned Belmonte, turning a full face on Daisy and ignoring Ed.

"Yes—Big Boy, and I got a bottle of perfume," laughed Daisy.

Ed folded his arms across his chest and leaned forward. But he said nothing. Cholo chuckled. He started to speak, but Belmonte's sharp-toed shoe caught him on the shin. Cholo frowned.

"Well," said Belmonte, "the party's on me. What'll it be? Champagne?"

"If it's cold," said Daisy, glancing at Ed. He sank back in his seat and levelled his eyebrows at the girl.

"Yes—be sure it's cold," he said. But Belmonte seemed to ignore the implication. He beamed and drew forth one of his salt-water stogies. He made a gesture toward the waiter.

"Open up that special stock," he said. He leisurely lighted his cigar, after breaking it in half and tossing part of it on the floor.

"Belmonte," said Daisy, "you made me a proposition once I think I'll take it. I'm tired living the life of a poor little working girl. Are you on?"

"I'm on—anytime you say," and Belmonte smoothed out the table cloth. Ed doubled his fists. Cholo instinctively edged away from him.

The two drinks Daisy and Ed had ordered arrived. Without ceremony Ed gulped his off. He shoved his glass toward the waiter.

"Bring me another," he said. The waiter nodded. Belmonte grinned. "Hittin' it up tonight?" he asked.

"Yeah? And what about it?" snarled Ed.

Belmonte shrugged in true Latin fashion.

"Oh, nothin'," he replied. Then he leaned forward and peered in the other's face. "You look like a regular guy," he said in oily tones. "I got a proposition."

"I don't want any of your propositions!" exclaimed Ed.

"Well, you wouldn't have to go out of your way," and Belmonte leaned back. "The cops have been bothering us out on Wentworth Street. If they would only lay off between three and four in the morning there might be a little somethin' in it."

Ed glared at him. Daisy reached over and pressed his hand.

"What did I tell you? There are ways to make money," she said.

"You, too?" asked Ed.

"Well, I can't see why you can't listen to the proposition," continued Daisy.

"All right—what is it, Belmonte? What do you want me to do?"

Instead of replying Belmonte reached in his pocket and extracted a roll of OIL Gone...

He Drove from Banner to Sheridan on the GERM PROCESSED "Hidden Quart"

The driver for the Sheridan Motor Bus Company was ready to leave Banner, Wyoming, for Sheridan with his big Reo bus loaded with passengers.

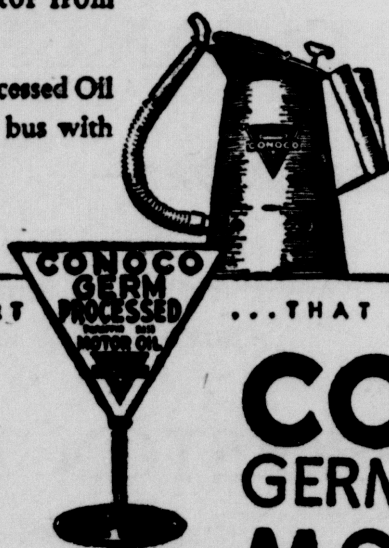

Then he made a discovery. The oil line had been accidentally broken, allowing the Conoco Germ Processed Oil to drain out, and the crankcase was empty. With all Banner closed for Thanksgiving, he could not get oil and had to drive the 16 miles to Sheridan without oil. At Sheridan, inspection showed that the "Hidden Quart" of Conoco Germ Processed Oil had saved the motor from damage!

Conoco Germ Processed Oil can protect a heavy bus with the crankcase empty, it will certainly give you sure, safe lubrication in everyday driving. It is the only oil that actually penetrates and combines with metal surfaces. That's why a "Hidden Quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. It cuts down wear in the starting period, when other oils drain away and leave parts unprotected. It gives your motor longer life, with fewer repair bills.

Have this extra protection. Change to Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil at the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle.

We neither encourage "dry crankcase" experiments nor guarantee success under all conditions. But unsolicited letters from motorists, now in our files, tell of this and hundreds of other runs with empty crankcases but without damage.

 Following the harmonica concert, the parents enjoyed the art exhibit. We had some very beautiful things that we have made this year under the direction of Miss Lucille Finley.

There were posters of foreign lands, safety, danger warnings, Indians, clean-up week, and of the Dutch people. There was a small picture show, various vases, trees and ships in decoration, oil painting, printing, and water color sketches.

Both rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers.

HEMSTITCHING SHOP LOCATED ON KINGSWAY

Miss Eva Newton has opened a hemstitching and fancy work shop in the small store room of the Del Rey building, Kingshighway, between Sarsar's and Mouser's Stores. Miss Newton recently purchased a modern hemstitching machine, and is known to many Sikeston women in the market for this kind of work.

The complete Priscilla line of needlework will be carried in this shop. A line of laces and threads for needlework can be obtained.

Several pretty gifts, suitable for prizes for bridge parties can be purchased at a very reasonable price.

Miss Newton invites her many friends to come in and see the attractive gifts already finished.

Charleston, April 5.—The prospects for a good football team and also basketball and tarrack are the brightest they have been for the Charleston high school in several years. Football, with nine lettermen back leads the sports in veterans. Seven linesmen and two backfield men compose this nine. Ellis, who did all of the passing and punting, and Goodin, fast ball carrier are the backfield veterans and Howle, Scott, Grace, Cagle, Bruenderman, Bynum and Marshall are the linesmen that Coach John Harris Marshall has back next year.

In basketball, the seven men that made letters this year, will be back next year. They are Howle, Lutz, Parks, Wise, Howard, Ellis and Brown.

This year's track squad has seven lettermen back from last year, but will lose four of these seven by graduation this year. The track team is composed of veterans, Johnson competing in his fourth year, Wigdor his third and Ellis, Davis, Scott, Howle, and Taylor completing their second year. The relay team from last year is back with the same men, Wigdor, Johnson, Taylor and Scott. There is several likely looking youngsters out for track also, so there ought to be several more lettermen out next year.

"Widow By Proxy" is the name of the play, which the members of the Junior Class of Charleston high school, will present Friday evening, April 8, at the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock.

The play is given under the direction of the class sponsor, Miss Mary Lee Simpson, member of the faculty of the high school.

 Dear Art:

The enclosed clipping was taken from the Springfield Press. It seems that some other fellows have a natural yearning for Sikeston when they get hungry. This article was in the column of the paper that in some respects compares to the "Man About Town".

I suppose that Bob Bradley thinks that the depression is over.

 T. W. Duvall, Joseph Acuff and myself were standing in the business office of The Press battling 'em out regarding things in general, when the front door flew open and a young man entered. Said the young man: "Fellers, I'm from Sikeston, Missouri an' I'm hongary. I've been out to Hollywood an' I'm tryin' to get home. I've hit a lot of these cafes around town and asked for work. At each place, I got two orders. One was to get out an' the other was to stay out. If I ever get back to Sikeston, I'm goin' to stay".

The young man didn't have to explain that he was not a professional panhandler. His speech was far too sincere, especially the reference to his staying in Sikeston if he was ever fortunate enough to get back there.

all that advance publicity said one might expect, and more. Those in the audience who had a thorough knowledge of the German language could sympathize with the players, and with the truly remarkable interpretation of the plot in a foreign tongue. George Fassnacht, Jr., as the Christus and Augusta Fassnacht as Mary Magdelene, had more difficulty with their English than others members of the cast, and by so much they weakened the production.

One should not be too critical of extras, but wrist watches on the arms of Cape Girardeau college students who assisted in that capacity, were most assuredly out of place. Grossly so.

One Sikestonian objected to attending the play for that reason that it had been unduly commercialized. That thought fled after the first scene, and, as the story of the passion of Christ unfolded, beginning with his triumphal entry into Jerusalem and concluding with the resurrection, the audience completely forgets commercialism, hard uncomfortable seats, and modern troubles and lived again the beautiful of Christ crucified, dead, buried and resurrected.

Lighting effects practically made the play. The story goes that the special glass curtain used during the resurrection scene cost a young fortune, and it might well be so. Costuming, also, was well worth the price of admission alone.

That you are SURE every piece of Sellard's Cubed Steak will be just as tender as Veal. You are SURE that every piece of Sellard's Cubed Steak even after cooking will be just as juicy, just as well flavored as if cooked by the most famous chef in this country. You can cook any piece of Sellard's Cubed Meats in TWO minutes—no more. This same machine is in use by the largest Cafe, Hotels and Markets.

You Can Get Cubed Meat Only at Sellard's Market ASK FOR IT!

Meat cut on a Cube Steak Machine is never pounded or bruised; it is clean cut. On the other hand—in punching holes, pounding, or chopping a piece of meat, the juice pockets and nourishment cells are bruised and broken. As soon as the meat comes in contact with the hot pan or grill, the juices will run out leaving a dry, flavorless steak.

Not so with Cubed Meat. It is cut into clean, quarter-inch squares not quite through. A film of meat is left uncut on the bottom so that the meat remains in one piece. As the flavor of meat is in proportion to the cooking surface exposed to the heat, you can readily see why cubing, which gives four times the cooking surface, improves the flavor. Cube Steak actually cooks on six sides.

IMPORTANT

Cook no longer than one minute on each side in a hot pan. Cook cubed side first.

NEWSPAPER POLICY; WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU!

In private affairs you prefer to do business with men of know enterprise, skill and integrity, no matter if their opinions and yours are remote as the poles. If they meet their obligations, fill your orders in service and goods—and are pleasant about it—they get your trade. Isn't that so? Similarly, the newspaper that holds your patronage must have those same qualities of honesty and enterprise. In addition, it must be informative and entertaining. A newspaper that meet such requirements is deserving of your patronage—and the profit is mutual.

Twice-a-Week Sikeston Standard

was founded in 1910 as a newspaper devoted solely to the interests of the people of Scott, New Madrid and Mississippi Counties—to render a full measure of service in giving all the news that's fit to be read; in stating its editorial opinions fairly and honestly and to make its presence attractive and welcome in your homes.

NEWSPAPER POLICY; WHAT IT MEANS TO YOU!

In private affairs you prefer to do business with men of know enterprise, skill and integrity, no matter if their opinions and yours are remote as the poles. If they meet their obligations, fill your orders in service and goods—and are pleasant about it—they get your trade. Isn't that so? Similarly, the newspaper that holds your patronage must have those same qualities of honesty and enterprise. In addition, it must be informative and entertaining. A newspaper that meet such requirements is deserving of your patronage—and the profit is mutual.

Twice-a-Week Sikeston Standard

was founded in 1910 as a newspaper devoted solely to the interests of the people of Scott, New Madrid and Mississippi Counties—to render a full measure of service in giving all the news that's fit to be read; in stating its editorial opinions fairly and honestly and to make its presence attractive and welcome in your homes.

Announcing

The handsomest desk ever built to sell at a commercial price!

The new Shaw-Walker Skyscraper Desk—combining the durability and economy of steel with the appearance of the finest woods! Note the artistic quarter-rounded beaded legs—never before attempted on metal furniture. Sturdy drawers, "Built Like a Skyscraper," open and close smoothly and silently with never a tinny echo. The drawer pulls are of Bakelite. The non-metallic, rolled-edge top is the most comfortable one you've ever worked on—no "cold feet." See for yourself the other refinements of construction. Your choice of colors—mahogany or walnut with green top, or green with warm brown top. But most of all, perhaps, you'll appreciate the moderate price!

Important! Come in and see the organization features; see how this new desk is organized for work.
